The departure of the Australia was a lively event on Saturday. The wharf was crowded with people. As the vessel was leaving the wharf the members of the Dailey Company gave three cheers for Honolulu.

The departure for San Francisco on Saturday afternoon of the large American ship Occidental, Captain Morse, afforded a fine sight to such lovers of naval architecture as chanced to be on the water front and saw her spread every sail almost in one minute's time. Only a light breeze was blowing, and the captain deemed it prudent to take a tug to guide her in case the wind might die away in the channel. She had 2700 tons of sugar on board, worth about $160,000-the largest cargo that has left this port in many months.
